PART V - BE A GOOD LITTLE SHEEP AND BELIEVE EVERYTHING THEY TELL YOU [not what I believe]

If you've followed me from the beginning and you're all caught up, my theory of July 4th begins in Part V. I will continue to take you on this journey.. through the deepest weeds.. in forthcoming posts.

*Please take the time to thoroughly explore the links provided for context and for your information. I have tried to keep them to a bare minimum, though the rough draft of this contained dozens more that were truncated to an essential list.

Preface:
I've been asked numerous times what I think happened on July 4th.
Can I give any information? Can I talk? Do I think he did it? Why did he kill those people? Was he alone? What do I know? What do I think? Is he a psychopath? Was he on drugs? and on and on and on.

I've avoided answering these questions directly for more than a year to preserve the "sanctity of the investigation and the case" but now, I'm ready to answer. I've seen and heard more than enough to effectively lose what remained of the little faith I had in those things.. In the Power.
I believe there is absolutely zero sanctity in this investigation and in this case.
I believe it is corrupt beyond reproach and constructed with the most foul, sociopathic, morally bankrupt, soulless individuals on earth.

I want to make very clear that what I'm about to say is based on my own supposition only. This is my theory.
I do not know it to be the unmitigated truth, but I firmly believe in the substantive supporting evidence of it. I still have many dots left to connect, even after fifteen months of obsessive research and my relationship with Bobby.

Additionally, he has given me his blessing to write what I believe to be the truth. But, these words are not HIS words.

I'm dividing this into parts to hopefully help streamline the information. Because to make the end make sense, we have to start at the beginning.

[Bobby once said to me, "I think you're smart. You're able to see what isn't easily seen."]

PART I : POST 9/11 WORLD

Prior to September 11th, 2001 the FBI investigated and solved larger scale crimes. They mainly focused on organized crime, drug and sex trafficking, and missing and exploited children. But they were a law enforcement agency at their core.

After September 11th, with mandates issued from the Bush Administration, the FBI made an official shift into becoming an intelligence agency.
(Whistleblower Coleen Rowley later criticized the FBI for intelligence they had prior to the Attacks and failing to act upon it)

No matter what your personal beliefs are of 9/11, most everyone can meet somewhere in the middle and agree that it wasn't a good day or a good look for the FBI. In hindsight, it was spectacularly atrocious.

Then-Attorney General John Ashcroft had expressed concerns about the number of sleeper Al-Qaeda cells suspected to exist within the U.S., estimated to be upward of 5,000.
The FBI's Counterterrorism Division ("CTD") increased significantly in both funding and manpower after September 11th, and, with its usage of paid confidential informants tasked with identifying potential threats, surveilling them using the "Gloves Off Approach" (when paired with the Patriot Act amounted to any means necessary), and with delivering these suspect individuals into the slimy hands of their filthy superiors.

In 2004, the use of Informants pivoted to the Confidential Human Source Reengineering Project, surely amounting to more funding in doing so, but whether their titles are "Paid Informants" or "Human Sources," such people only became more pervasive, more incendiary, and more poisonous in regular society.

Anyone can become a Human Source, but the most common scenario in which a person finds themselves in that position is when they are faced with a certain amount of legal trouble they'd like to wiggle out of.
Essentially, they are grander scale "snitches" only their responsibilities don't end with rolling on co-conspirators and handing over names.
Others have used this position as an entry level job with the hopes of becoming FBI Agents one day.

The task of the Counterterrorism Division (CTD) is to find and disarm potential terrorists before an event occurs. The CTD is filled to the brim with Confidential Human Sources, still. It's a fairly lucrative gig and it only comes at the cost of destroying innocent lives and being able to punt all guilt far from your conscience.

In the early 2000s, the CTD infiltrated Muslim enclaves with the intent of sniffing out sleeper terrorists from homes and Mosques and began ~~stalking~~ surveilling EVERYONE. 25/8.
Their efforts produced surprisingly little to substantiate the estimated thousands of sleepers in hiding. In all likelihood - to offset an abject failure - again they pivoted and began manufacturing their own potential terrorists, targets, and false plots where previously none had ever existed at all. Because if you can't find some, MAKE some instead.

Recall.
In the Post 9/11 World, domestic terrorism was tacitly synonymous with bombings.
Like firemen setting their own fires to be the first on scene, the CTD and its informants/human sources began targeting vulnerable individuals, catfishing them into false personal relationships, and inevitably grooming them into becoming "potential terrorists."

They grow their own suspects as if they were Chia Pets. They did it then, and they do it today.
Just this year, Time Magazine published the article Why the FBIs Troubling History with Informants is Getting New Attention and one paragraph immediately stood out, echoing sentiments previously stated by Whistleblowers:
"FBI manuals are explicit about the need to manipulate and coerce [Confidential Human Sources], advising agents to use "natural actions" when cultivating a [Confidential Human Source] to create a "seemingly personal relationship."
Guidelines instruct agents how to "inspire an individual to do something that they may not otherwise do.""

FBI GUIDELINES INSTRUCT AGENTS HOW TO INSPIRE AN INDIVIDUAL TO DO SOMETHING THAT THEY MAY NOT OTHERWISE DO.
FBI GUIDELINES INSTRUCT AGENTS ON GROOMING TECHNIQUES.

In 2021, The NY Times published the interview, 'I Helped Destroy People' with Terry Albury, a former FBI agent turned Whistleblower who was imprisoned for leaking classified documents to The Intercept in 2017. The Intercept published 'The FBI's Secret Rules' based on those documents.
Albury joined the FBI in 2001 after the Attacks as an "Investigative Specialist" before graduating to Agent in 2005. He was a sixteen year bureau veteran when he blew the whistle.
According to Terry's own account,
"So we catch some kid who doesn't know his ear from his ass for building a bomb fed to them by the F.B.I., or we take people from foreign countries where they have secret police and recruit them as informants and capitalize on their fear to ensure there is compliance. It's a very dangerous and toxic environment, and we have not come to terms with the fact that maybe we really screwed up here," he says. "Maybe what we're doing is wrong."

In 2013, (friend of the show and journalist at The Intercept) Trevor Aaronson published the book The Terror Factory: Inside the FBIs Manufactured War on Terrorism.
In 2015, he gave the Ted Talk "How this FBI strategy is actually creating U.S.-based terrorists."

Of course, these were NEVER the stories the mainstream media were giving us. What we were told, and believed, was that the FBI was working double overtime to find and apprehend the terrorists amongst us. - - Pause for applause - - /sarcasm

It wasn't until their corrupt machinations started facing larger scale exposure that cases began being overturned and ultimately, that threats of these supposed suicide bombers began to fade from view.
The Global War on Terrorism may have ended, but the War on Terror at home persists still… today. The enormous funding and manpower that exists within the CTD simply isn't going to downsize or pack up and go home.
It is plausible to assume that the feds attempted to distance themselves from their expedient practices and also that eventually we'd all forget it ever happened. Perhaps many of us did.

But in reality, Domestic Terrorism V1 only faded into the recesses of history in favor of an entirely new breed: Mass Shooters. And yet, the country had apparently suffered just enough amnesia to now be entirely incapable of adding 2+2.

PART II : THE WAR ON TERROR AND GORE FOR PORN

In February 2004, a shock/user-contributed-amateur-porn site called nowthatsfuckedup.com (NTFU, colloquially) went live. But back in 2004 user contribution wasn't akin to user contributed sites like OnlyFans today. At that time, men uploaded explicit photos of their wives and girlfriends. (Or ex-wives and ex-girlfriends)

NTFU was owned and operated by Lakeland, FL. resident Christopher M. Wilson, and existed until April, 2006.

source: Rolling Stone 2005

Buried internet articles from 2005/2006 suggest Wilson was a former police officer but that remains unverified.

Deployed U.S. soldiers found that they were unable to use their credit cards to gain access to the site due to issues with bank verification and began emailing Wilson for workarounds. Based on that, Wilson adopted an entirely new business model for the site: free memberships with proof of active military deployment.
Users initially submitted tepid photos of themselves in FRACs, with tanks, or near barracks as proof of deployment, but as word of free memberships quickly disseminated, the intensity of the photos swiftly grew to graphic and disturbing "trophy photos."
A severed head floating in a bowl of blood… a child with its face blown off to the pulp…. Severed limbs…. HERE'S YOUR MEMBERSHIP, SOLDIER.

According to Wilson, he hadn't directly asked for such photos. They totally just fell onto his lap unprovoked. Also according to Wilson, he refused to censor them or take them down, opting instead to house them on their own subsection of the site in an effort to "empathize with the soldiers' desire to show the realities of their service."
(Because reality also includes photographing horrifically dismembered corpses of children and swapping the pics out for fucking revenge porn. Totally.)

In September of 2005, NTFU's ignominious new tagline became "Bodies for Porn" and its growing notoriety led to an Army launched investigation into the possible felonious nature of the photos – But Army spokesman Paul Boyce later reported that the investigation had concluded and that they couldn't enforce Military Code on ordinary civilians such as Wilson. [meaning: no one was going to be in trouble for this.]

Arsalan Iftikhar, of the Council on American-Islamic Relations, contacted Donald Rumsfeld directly to demand an investigation into the photos on the site. An anonymous source later claimed to Rolling Stone that when the Deputy Chief of Staff was notified, a call immediately was made to the Florida prosecutor and Governor, JEB BUSH. The President's Little Brudder.

The very next day, October 7th 2005, Wilson's home was raided and he was arrested on 301 charges under Florida Obscenity laws and was reportedly facing the possibility of a life sentence.
He was released from jail on October 11th on $151,000 bail.
However, on December 16th 2005, Judge Dale Durrance revoked Wilson's bail and ordered him to remain in custody, after learning that Wilson had continued to operate NTFU while released on bail.

Wilson hired high profile First Amendment attorneys and received an extra assist from the ACLU to work with prosecutors, and on January 13th, 2006, he pled no contest to only five misdemeanors and, under - the deal - was legally forbidden from working for any adult websites for five years. He was sentenced that following spring.

Wilson then relocated from the puritan, stick-in-the-mud, no-fun-allowing Lakeland, FL. to Ocoee, FL.
On August 4, 2008, just 2.5 years after being sentenced, Wilson registered the domain DocumentingReality.com on GoDaddy. The gore site is still live today.

Many alarm bells should have gone off as you read all of that. In the interest of brief and broad strokes, allow me to summarize:
- a bodies for porn website owner is investigated by the Department of Defense and arrested on 301 charges, facing life in prison
- an Army led investigation into the site concluded no felonious activity had occurred; it wasn't until Donald Rumsfeld was contacted for further investigation that Wilson's home was finally raided
- he violated the terms of his bond by continuing to operate the site while out, causing revocation of his bond and his return to custody
- THIS IS A MAN IN SOME SERIOUS LEGAL SHIT
- he worked out a DEAL with prosecutors and pled no contest from 301 charges, ALL THE WAY down to just 5 soupçon misdemeanors
- part of that deal was not owning, operating, or working for adult websites for 5 years
- that deal was made in 2006
- DocumentingReality went live in 2008
- after facing the possibility of life in prison for NTFU and escaping it, Wilson goes on to launch ANOTHER gore site well before the five year limit expired because fuck learning a lesson

PART III : THE UTTER FAILURE OF SOCIETY TO CONNECT THE DOTS

2 + 2 = ?

The unassailable new "domestic terror" that is nearly constant mass shootings; The subjects that are ultimately incriminated and more often than not, the ones that are deceased before the news even hits the MSM, with the inability to defend themselves, are summarily dismissed as simply being psychopathic fame seekers or were simply suffering from the copycat phenomenon of Contagion. Either way, they are labeled scum and forgotten.

Continual questions are raised as to why this keeps happening and where these people are coming from, and how such obvious walking bundles of red flags continue to go unnoticed, unchecked, and fall right through every crack of the laws designed to prevent or stop them - But few ever truly stop to seek the answers.

Social media and groupthink are supreme in today's information sharing. Mass shooters are quickly discarded and the public is encouraged to never say their names, show their photos, to never think of these people ever again.
#NoNotoriety was one such media campaign, insisting little to no attention will ever be paid to a shooter.

People are gingerly encouraged to instead remain engaged in the Sisyphean GUNS vs MENTAL HEALTH debate and argue amongst each other over who's really to blame - Is it the Republicans? Or the Democrats?
Fight amongst yourselves.
Just.. Stay distracted.

What a huge fucking WIN for the Feds.
The harder you all continue to ignore the shooters, or "the shooters," the more of them they are able to create just like the "suicide bombers" before them.

The Counterterrorism Division and its Sources are still very active in their War on Terror and are still actively manufacturing targets FOR PROFIT. Why are we so blind to the blatant fact that so many of them are homegrown by our own government? Why would anyone assume mass shootings wouldn't fall under the umbrella of the CTD's manufactured terrorists?

Just FOUR months ago, during an FBI Whistleblower Hearing, former Agent Garret O'Boyle testified that he was left homeless after blowing the whistle on the FBI cooking its books and receiving payment incentives for increased investigations and arrests. The more cases a field office has at the end of the year, the bigger the cash bonus.
O'Boyle indicated that there are certain checkmarks that inflate the bonuses and that arrests related to white supremacy are worth the most money.

Former Agent turned Whistleblower Steve Friend testified that the statistics for Domestic Extremism had been largely, erroneously inflated and that the FBI had effectively been "creating crime for investigation."

((A Michigan suspect who authorities say expressed explicit neo-Nazi and antisemitic ideologies online was arrested Friday by the FBI who alleged he stockpiled weapons and was planning a mass shooting.)) ← Big, BIG Payday for that one.

Targets, they said, have been expanded to include virtually anyone and everyone.
Human Sources are often tasked with infiltrating websites like 4Chan, 2Chan, 8Kun, LiveLeak, and even DocumentingReality to hunt down 'vulnerable' targets like ravenous, insidious wolves, and diabolically form relationships with them before radicalizing/indoctrinating/grooming them into the pressure of committing a crime.
They are the subhuman scourge that lurk in every corner and every liminal space of the internet, and far beyond it.

Recently, during The Oathkeepers trial for their part in the January 6th Capitol Attack, it was revealed that the Oathkeepers own Vice President, Greg McWhirter, was in actuality a high level Confidential Human Source and was not the only one infiltrating the group.
"The unmasking of yet another informant within the Oath Keepers militia further exposes the role of the FBI, the principal federal domestic intelligence agency, in facilitating the attack on the Capitol." - wswsnews

Former Agent turned Whistleblower Kyle Seraphin leaked an FBI document that targeted CATHOLICS as "violent extremists" and in which FBI Analysts equated them with white supremacists while drafting anti-Catholic memos.

And just this year, 2023, on Ash Wednesday, the FBI Chicago Field Office broke a decades long tradition when they disinvited and disallowed a Catholic Priest to distribute ashes.

The Whistleblowers also testified that the FBI indicated that a person who owns a Betsy Ross Flag is far more likely to "be a terrorist."

They testified they had investigated parents in parking lots of PTA meetings as potential traffickers.

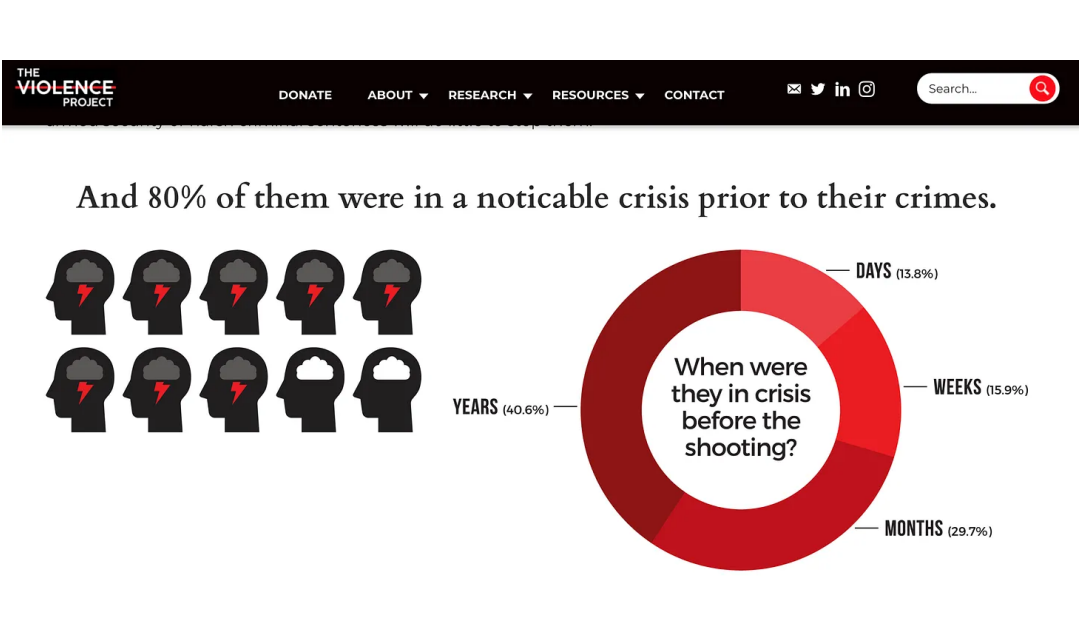
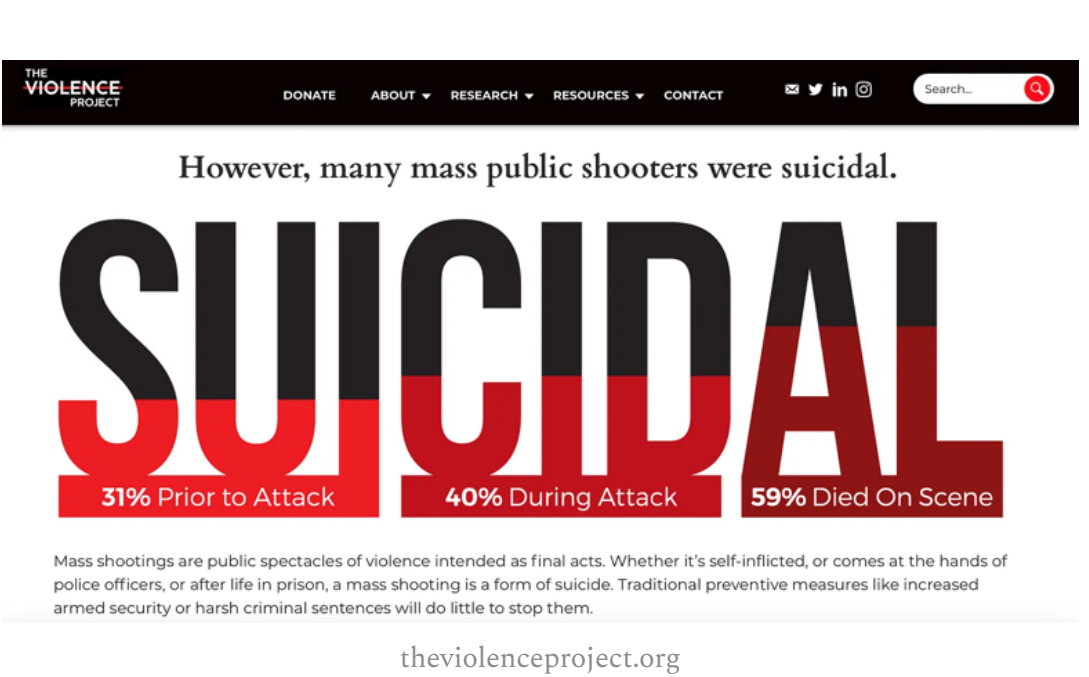
They testified that their ruthless tactics permit them the freedom to target anyone in the country just because they FUCKING FEEL LIKE IT.

Samy Hamzeh was arrested in January 2016 after the FBI "uncovered a mass shooting plot." But Hamzeh's attorneys say he was only trying to earn credibility with FBI informants who prodded him for months to buy a machine gun. He was cleared to present the defense that he was entrapped.

According the The Violence Project, mass shooters possess strikingly similar characteristics, including a large percentage being in a NOTICABLE psychotic crises prior to the event and often suicidal, themselves seeing a mass shooting as a form of suicide.



And 80% of them were in a noticable crisis prior to their crimes.



However, many mass public shooters were suicidal.

Mass shootings are public spectacles of violence intended as final acts. Whether it's self-inflicted, or comes at the hands of police officers, or after life in prison, a mass shooting is a form of suicide. Traditional preventive measures like increased armed security or harsh criminal sentences will do little to stop them.

At least, that's what those numbers say.

Even on its face, Bobby was neither of those things. Everyone, from Documenting Reality members, to his family, to his friends, agree there was nothing psychotic about him leading up. That he was chill and cool. And if he was suicidal, he had the means to take action.

The Violence Project takes into account for all none of those who have been entrapped by feds to commit a crime, or for those who were entrapped to take the fall for one.
It doesn't account for the suicides that were perhaps merely staged to look that way.
It doesn't account for the number of informants committing these acts and allowing their false, manufactured targets to assume 100% of the responsibility after they've perished at the scene.
In fact, it accounts for absolutely no government involvement at all.
The statistics and databases are built upon the assumption that all mass shooters are created equally. And they are not.
Basically, the statistics are completely fucking skewed.

In 2016, the FBI raided the Lake County, IL. Sheriff's Office investigating charges of corruption. The same Sheriff's Office which oversees the Lake County Adult Corrections Facility. The same facility Bobby has been held in for fifteen deplorable months.

Illinois Policy reported in 2019/2020 that Illinois was the second most corrupt in the nation, with its crosshairs focused tightly on Chicago. But, Chicago corruption dates back to, at least, the Prohibition Era.
[Read: CHICAGO POLICE BOSSES HAVE ALWAYS TARGETED THOSE WHO EXPOSE CORRUPTION]
The Lake County Sheriff's office is no less corrupt today than it was in 2016 but THAT is for another blog.

In June 2020, Bobby became a member of Documenting Reality under the name Awake47.
It is assumed, though not verified, that he stumbled onto the site via 4Chan.

Presently, site memberships are granted after a user transfers $20 in BITCOIN only, to keep the registration process entirely anonymous. That in itself does not seem unusually sus whatsoever.. A completely legitimate BITCOIN only business.

The site hosts all manner of gore and death photos and videos, including the same trophy types once found on nowthatsfuckedup.com. Reportedly, it does, or did recently, host the Luke Magnotta Icepick Snuff Film ……… with shocking impunity.

On the user forum The Watercooler, members post messages to each other with little restriction on their language, essentially allowing racist and homophobic comments to flourish. 1A, everybody.
